OUR PROJECTS

Project 01

Digital Conference 2023–24

The +921HeritageTalks is a project of Pakistan Chowk Community Centre (PCCC), where PCCC is aiming to create a link between the people, arts, built environment and the ecology through research and local understanding.

The +921HeritageTalks are designed to provide a platform for the people from across a wide range of backgrounds with a common thread and interest to bring their research ideas for conservation, rehabilitation and accessibility of heritage sites and public places. The most important query and reason to hold these sessions is to deconstruct the idea of the future of heritage in Karachi.

At PCCC we aim to engage in a comprehensive dialogue by bringing together architects, researchers, urban planners, policymakers, designers, artists, journalists, film makers, bloggers and activists to brainstorm ideas for the protection, dialogue, conservation, rehabilitation & accessibility of heritage sites & public spaces. +921HeritageTalks hopes to bring all the stakeholders together under one multidisciplinary setting so that together they may present solutions feasible for concerned authorities.

Project 02

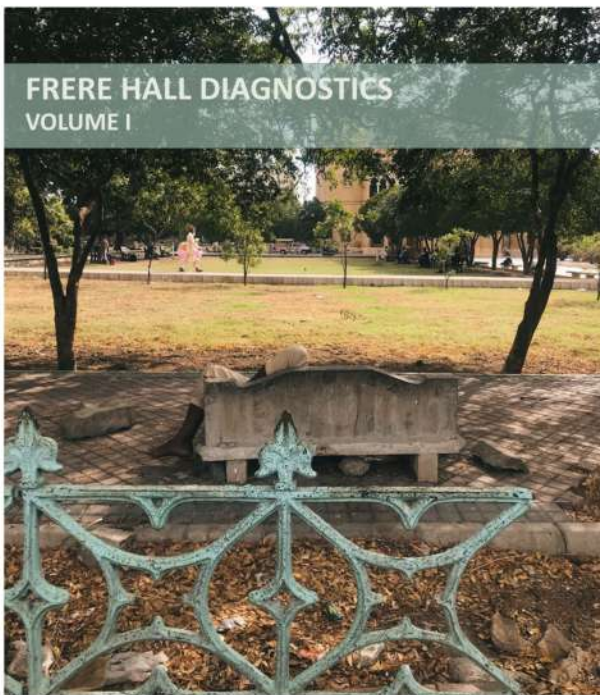

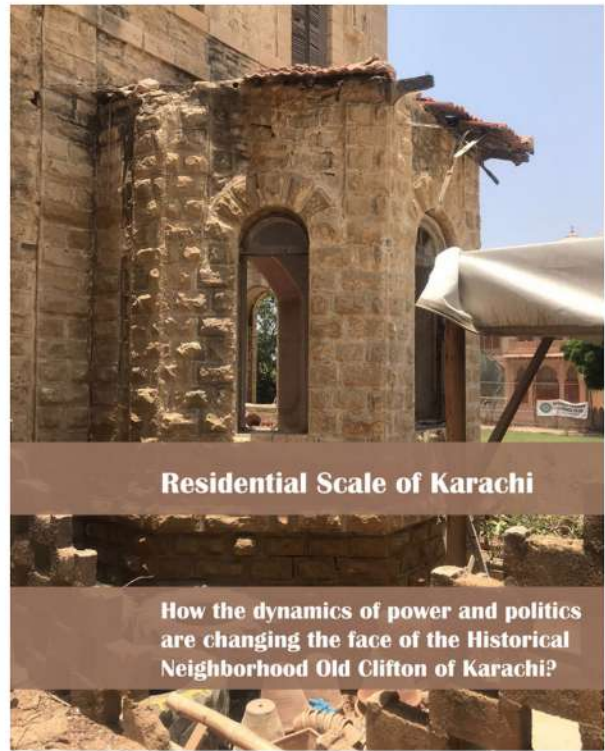

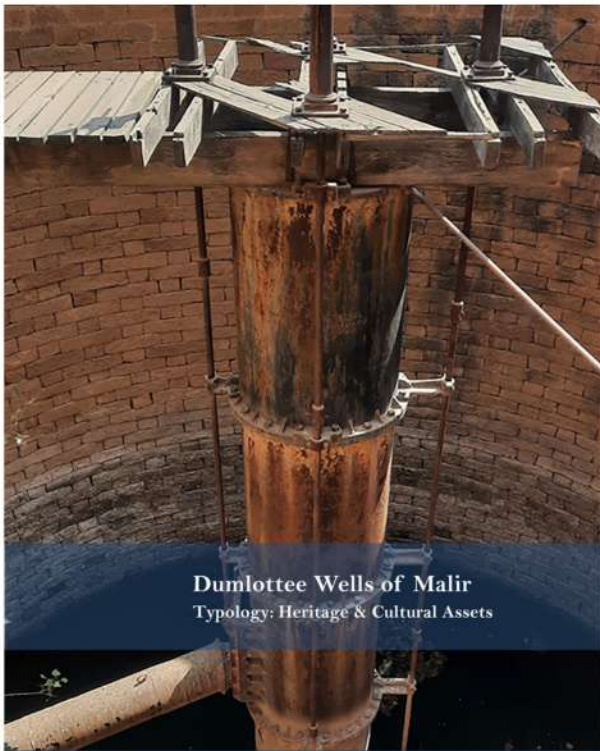

Advocacy and Documentation in Karachi's Old Town

As the years have gone by, the changing political culture, disorderly planning and increase in urbanization have contributed to the area of Old Town becoming a forgotten refuge for Karachi's heritage. There has been an evident change in the development and maintenance of infrastructure throughout this time period, some complementing the olden look and some proving to be unaesthetic to the eye.

As urban populations increased, it was soon realized that old city areas were not planned to adequately provide communication infrastructure, warehouses, residential expansions etc. causing people to move out to newer locations leaving Old Town in the hands of political lobbies and hence, unattended.

Heritage Walk Karachi (HWK) is going to advocate and document Heritage site in Karachi's Old Town. It will address theoretical and methodological issues in research. This research and documentation will provide opportunity to build research ideas and experience for documenting heritage sites.

Project 03

Karachi: understanding Architecture & Urban Design Development

Pakistan Chowk Community Center (PCCC) brings a two-day workshop. It has been designed as a program of intensive training workshops to address the architecture and urban development of the city Karachi. The workshop aims to explore the structural and dynamic relationship of urban development. This workshop will provide a platform for in depth understanding of the development of the city.

Place-Based workshop intends to learn from the residues of decayed infrastructures and historical neighborhoods, to demonstrate how neighborhoods have changed over time and their importance in today's context.

These remains, themselves representative of past affluence, demonstrate what has been lost in the growth and solidification of inequality in the city. Our workshop partners with different practitioners on strategies for approaching the urban environment both as a scholarly researcher or as a curious citizen.
